Futures Masterclass Summary

When I've done these "program summaries" in the past, I carefully summarized everything that we'd covered up to this point in the program, essentially reminding everyone of the steps that we have already taken. Kind of a "tell them what you already told them" kind of thing. Repetition is the Mother of Skill, after all!

But let's not waste your time, let's imagine that I just met you after going through all of the previous modules; here is what I would ask you:

What Are You Prepared To Do Now?

Let me ask you a question: Have you "live" traded as you went through this program? If so, please slow down and go back to Module Three again. Enjoy the process and learn to love it, because this is the only way to "edge" and "performance" that we all crave. Let's check your progress to this point:

- ☐ Do you understand how Futures contract gain or lose value with changes in price?
- ☐ Do you understand how to go "short" as well as "long?"
- ☐ Have you built your Business Plan?
- ☐ Have you created a Trading Plan?
- ☐ Have you defined your trading niche?
- ☐ What trading system are you using? Have you defined it in your Trading Plan?
- ☐ What risk are you taking on each trade? What are your stops?
- ☐ How will you know when to expand or contract your targets/stops?
- ☐ What broker are you planning to investigate and use?
- ☐ Are you your own performance coach?
- ☐ Do you have the "Rage to Master?"

You might not have all of those items in place yet, and perhaps you've only been able to check off a few boxes. That's OK, everyone has to start somewhere. Just don't put any LIVE capital at risk while you learn! There's no point in funding someone else's account until you're ready and have an edge.

Then you can get Your Fair Share.

All the best to you, let me know how I can help going forward, and thanks for taking the journey with me.
